U. S. Marshal Bierbower Brings in a Prominent Prisoner from the East.

And Deputy Marshal Allen Another from the West.

U. S. Marshal Bierbower, who has been absent in the east for several weeks, returned Sunday morning, bringing with him as a prisoner. Power Coulter, late sergeant major of company C, Fifth cavalry, United States army. Coulter was placed in the county jail for safe keeping until the next term of the United States court in this city, when he will be tried. Coulter was arrested at Harrisburg, Pa., upon a capias charging him with "uttering and publishing soldiers' final statements with intent to defraud," These final statements, as they are called, are given to each soldier as he reupon back allowances. That is, if during his services he uses less clothing or tobacco, or draws less pay than he is entitled to: the amount thus saved is entered upon the final statement as it is given to the soldier, who then presents it to the paymaster. Coulter, who had charge of the making out of these statements, was in the habit, it is said, of raising the amount due the men and using the To a reporter Coulter said that he felt confident of acquittal, as his prosecution would not be pushed to any extent. The officers, he said, who will prosecute him undoubted!y are aware of his knowledge of sever al questionable transactions in which they were concerned, and will, there-fore, be not at all anxious to press him too closely. He mentioned in this regard the case of one officer who reported upon the desertion of a private who took with him his carbine and a revolver. In the report it appeared that half a dozen carbines and and nine revolvers had gone with this unfortunate fellow. The officer hypothecated the five carbines and eight revolvers in order to make matters ritt during the riots in Chicago and in the campaign against the Utes. He takes his arrest with philosophy, and thinks that it is due to a chance visit of Marsha! Bierbower to Harrisburg, as arresting him will result in the payment by the government of the ex-penses of his trip. He is the son of respectable parents, with whom he was living at the time of his arrest. The reporter called at the office of Marshal Bierbower to-day and learned that Coulter was indicted by the grand jury at the November term of the United States court on the charge been passed into the Exchange bank of Sidney. He was a member of Cap-tain Emil Adams company, one of the two which came to Omaha during the late labor troubles. He enlisted in September, 1876, and was discharged at the expiration of his term of enlistment. Rumored Change of a Union Pacific Official.

The Alleged Sale of the Omaha and St. Paul Road.

Scrap Iron Picked Up Along the Line

There have been from time to time, of late, rumors that the Union Pacific was about to be deprived of the services of Mr. J. T. Clark, the present superintendent, whose ability as a thorough, practical railroad man is recognized all over the country. The latest concerning this subject was the following item clipped from Saturday's Chicago Times:

"For some unaccountable reason rumor has not been busy recently with the general superintendency of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. But yesterday rumor introduced to railway circles a gentleman who is soon to become the incumbent ceives his discharge, and are simply of that important office. The officer a declaration of the amount due him referred to is Mr. J. T. Clark, general superintendent of the Union division of the Union Pacific railway, with headquarters at Omaha. He has just finished a tour of the St. Paul lines, in company with Mr. Merrill, general manager, and it was reported yesterday that he had accepted the general superintendency. Mr. Clark, whether he decides upon the rumored change or not, is one of the most promising young railroad managers in the west.

> eral Superintendent Clark's connection with the Union Pacific is con firmed by inquiry among the Union Pacific officials. He offered his resignation last week and will leave for his new field of duty about the 10th of May. His successor is not yet determined upon and while the names of P. J. Nichols and Robert Law, two division superintendents of the U. P., are mentioned, it is possible that some new man will step into his shoes from another road entirely. The position of general su-perintendent of the Milwaukee road is a more responsible one, being equivalent to that of general man-

A BEE reporter was yesterday informed by a man prominently con nected with the Chicago, St. Paul Minneapolis & Omaha road, who got It his information from one of that the terms of officials the sale of that line and branches the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific road, had been agreed upon and that the sale would be consum mated at a very early day. It is difficult to see in what respect this prop-erty would be of value to the Rock Island as it has no branches that would prove good feeders. There has, however, been considerable talk of mutual invasions of each other's ter-ritory and it may be that the transfer is to be the only means of a compro-mise, If the appointment of Mr. Clark would be as general superintendent of the Rock Island and Omaha & St. Paul combined he would step into one of the most important railway positions in the United States or in the world for that matter. There would be one important result to Omaha, and that would be the entrance of the Rock Island trains to this city by way of Blair. It is, however, conceded by nearly all our local railroad men that the pool lines will all be forced to come in within the next sixty days by

The Union Pacific quarries, nes The Union Pacific quarries, near Fort Collins, Col., have been leased to W. H. B. Stout, the contractor, who proposes to begin working them at once with a large force of men. The quarries contain an inexhaustible supply of silicate and sandstone, which is pronounced the best in the west for building purposes, curbing and guttering, sidewalks and cross walks, and street pavements. It is durable and easily handled, and can be readily cut into all shapes and sizes. It is taken out in smooth lay ers, which can be used for flagging without dressing.

Mr. Stout proposes to make Omaha the principal market for the stone, which can be laid down here at very reasonable rates; and if the city intends to pave its streets with stone no better opportunity will ever be offered

He confirms the report that the work will not be completed before September, as there are two enormous cuts to be completed, each nearly 2,700 feet in ength and of unusual depth. The work is progressing as favorably as could be asked or desired, and the completion of the cut-off will be a most important step for the Omaha &

St. Paul road. Superintendent Morfort stated on Sunday that they were about to put in a side track to Florence and change the public road, the two improvements being of the highest importance to the Florence people.

FURAY'S FATE.

Well Known Special Agent The Meets With a Sad Accident,

Last evening Mr. John B. Furay, the well known special agent of the postoffice department, met with a very serious accident, which will probably cost him his right arm.

He lives up on Saunders street, a couple of blocks beyond the terminus on the front platform with the driver. In rounding one of the numerous curves at the street corners suddenly, the violent motion of the car jerked Mr. Furay from his seat, and he fell across the iron guard to the ground. His right arm was caught under the wheels, and before the car could be stopped was run over and so badly crushed that it is feared amputation will be necessary.

Mr. Furay was a fine specimen of manhood physically and it is pretty hard to meet with such an accident n the prime of life. While it seems carcely probable still his friends will hope that he may escape without the loss of that useful member of his body, that?" his right arm.

THE NEW COMMANDER.

The New Colonel of the Ninth Infantry Expected by May 1st.

The details of the terrible injury received by Col. James C. Van Voast, who succeeded Gen. King as colonel of the Ninth infantry, stationed at Fort Iowa. Omaha, and as commander of this post, were published in THE BEE soon after the accident happened. It was at that time believed that he had met with foul play, but since his recovery begun the colonel states that he has no doubt but that he himself was alone to blame.

A letter dated April 13, was Sunday received by Adjutant Foote from the new commander of this regiment in which the writer says:

"The doctors say I am doing very well, but I am not able to write or to walk about much, owing to the injury to my brain. I am still confine my room with my head bandaged, but think the lower jaw about well." The writer states that his friends wanted him to take an ambulance and escort from Fort McKevelt to Abilene. he was so anxious to reach Omaha that he took the stage route.

The accident occurred while the stage was descending the mountains stage was descending the mountains early in the morning, and the colonel says that after thorough inquiries he can blame no one for its occurrence. Falling on his head, he sustained the terrible injuries, of which an account has been given in The Bez. The colonel's letter states that the quarter-master's agent at Abilene failed to master's agent at Abilene failed to understand how badly he was injured, and being told by alocal physician that he, the colonel, could safely start for home, placed him on the train the next day en route for Newport, Ky. brance whatever, becoming worse every hour, until in an unconscious state he was helped from the Pullman car at his home. The dark pall of midnight had settled down with a dull, heavy thud in the neighborhood of Boyd's opera house and elsewhere, last Friday night, as a young man groped his way through dismal halls and winding stairs to his lonely couch. He is a zealous and attentive practitioner at the bar, and dispenses unadulterated wisdom from numerous bottles to stimulate the bowels and limber up the tongue. He fs fairly handsome and unusually modest, and mixes "whisky sour" with a strong French-Irish acnight hour he wends his way wearily homeward, and it was during one of these nightly pilgrimages that the un-

The door did not yield to his touch and his knock brought no response of the red line street cartrack, and had but the echo of the sound. This aptaken a cart to ride home, sitting out struck the wrong room, and he retraced his steps till he found a door

There was a bed near the center that looked familiar and inviting, and, as near as he could distinguish in the gloom, surrounding objects convinced him that he was in the right place. He doffed his duds energetically, and in a condition of denuded innocence he bounced into bed. Scarcely had he touched the covers ere he leaped to his feet with a smothered yell like that produced by lighting on the sharp end of a tack.
At the same instant a form arose in
